Healthcare Records on Trial

This intensive one-day course is aimed at addressing some of the practical implications of healthcare records for nurses and other healthcare professionals. It will help you to produce professional records which will enhance your credibility as a witness. The day includes lectures on good record keeping and accountability. Key tips are given by a lawyer on effective witness presentation with practical exercises on how to produce first class records. Delegates will learn through realistic role-plays with discussion and feedback.

Nurses, Midwives and the Law

A one-day intensive training programme for Nurses and Midwives, that examines in a practical and interactive way, the key legal issues that are relevant to Nurses and Midwives, in their day-to-day practice, including; Duty of Care, Negligence, Consent, and Scope of Practice, amongst others.

Care of the Older Person

This course is designed for health care professionals with a background or interest in the topical issue of care of the elderly in Ireland. The course provides an overview of the law on such issues as consent, negligence, restraint and DNR's as they apply to elderly people in residential care settings.

We also provide in-house training courses. For further information please contact
Susie Shine at 01 879 2106 or sshine@latouchetraining.ie
