eDiscovery Conference 2018
Friday November 30th, The RDS, Dublin 4

Distinguished Speaker: Mr. Kingsley Aikins, The Networking Institute

Kingsley Aikins is Founder and CEO of The Networking Institute which he established to research, train and consult in the area of Networking. He has lived and worked in 6 countries and found Networking the glue that made everything happen. However no school or college teaches networking and organisations don't have strategies for it. Since returning to live in In Dublin he has worked with over 50 companies and trained more than 5000 people. He particularly focuses on companies in law, accounting, finance and consulting. He has developed a unique methodology which he delivers online and offline. He has written and published extensively on the topic and now works in Ireland, US, UK and Australia and his largest client is a law firm in Sydney.

He is an economics graduate of Trinity College Dublin and previously worked for the Irish Trade Board and IDA Ireland for 10 years and was CEO of The Ireland Funds for 21 years. He is a former Leinster rugby player and in 2011 was awarded a CBE for his contributions to British-Irish relations. He is married with 3 children and lives in Dublin.
